Advantis Credit Union Recognized as Top Corporate Philanthropist by the Portland Business Journal for Eighth Consecutive Year

Portland, ORE., Oct. 18, 2018 — Advantis Credit Union was recently named as a top corporate philanthropist in the large company category by the Portland Business Journal. The credit union was recognized at the annual Corporate Philanthropy Awards luncheon on Wednesday, October 17 and was ranked #3 overall in the top ten companies within the large category. The annual award recognizes companies that give back through employee volunteer programs and through financial commitments to local nonprofits. This is the eighth consecutive year that Advantis has been recognized by the Business Journal for its community giving efforts.

“This award is a reflection of Advantis’ culture,” said John Nichols, Vice President of Marketing. Giving back through volunteer service and funding has been a core value at Advantis for more than 90 years and we look forward to continuing to support our neighborhood nonprofits as we grow.”

In 2017, Advantis served 1,035 volunteer service hours. Additionally, Advantis provided $50,000 in grants to six local nonprofits through Grow: The Advantis Community Fund, and contributed over $126,000 in grants, sponsorships and employee donation match funds.
